

New International and European Bed Standards

Overview:

The aim of this half day course is to increase the awareness of the latest IEC bed standards, implemented in April 2010. IEC stands for International Electrotechnical Committee. They are an international group of recognised experts who set safety standards for medical electrical equipment. A full presentation on the new IEC 60601-2-52 bed standards will be given and will look at the relevant changes and how they will affect your service.
